

From Slavery to Freedom Garden: Confronting the Past to Heal the Future

---

This anti-racist garden lesson will invite students to explore the personal narratives of enslaved peoples through exploring their own personal narratives and relationship to the land. This in-person opportunity centers around learning how to identify edible and medicinal plants and exploring the concepts of environmental justice and sustainability.

Please see the From Slavery to Freedom Garden webpage for more information.

Big Ideas:

Connection to Culture

Sovereignty

Anti-Racist Teaching

Equity Centered, Inclusive

Positive Black Identity

Connection to History and Land

Agriculture and Society

Environmental Justice

Climate Justice

Sustainability

---

To sign up for a 90-minute From Slavery to Freedom Garden Tour, contact Lan Tran (ltran@pittsburghparks.org). Transportation assistance available.